Commerce with the Ohio. The rolling stock of the company is taxed to its utmost capacity, and measures are being father, 'the longest sword.'" taken to increase it. It is evident that with increased means there must be a large increase of business between the Ohio and nuncle? They are not put down on our

Tidewater Virginia. But when thinking of this line of transportation, so vitally important to us, we are ever reminded that, save for the country strange gods. Why not drink at your own between here and the shores of the Ohio, the | fountains? road is dependent altogether upon the river for business. When the river is low the freights are reduced, and when it is frozen they are altogether cut off. The uncertainties of such a line at particular seasons are such that travel by it is almost stopped beyond the railroad terminus. The passenger cannot risk the chances to get to or away from Huntington, and takes a longer route.

And yet the populations interested in placing so eligible a route, independent of such exigencies, are large, wealthy, and possessed of utlimited resources for growth and thrift. Would it not be strange if they should allow the present state of things to continue for any considerable time? Certainly it would. They are losing steadily, daily, and hourly. How long would it take the gains to commerce, after the bridging over the narrow gap that is now needed to make an all-rail line between this city and the West, to pay the cost of it? An incredibly short period. Immense would be the gains to that great population that would deal in the produce and goods transported over the James and Kanawba line.

We have not in our fancy properly measured the immense trade. It is above the ordinary ideas of traffic and transportation. We already know that the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad is incapable, with its present means, of transporting all that is offered it when the Ohio is in good condition and the steamers moving lively upon its bosom. The completion of the western connections of that road would give it a permanent business of a stupendous magnitude, and that busines would be always increased by the contributions of the Obio in tine boating seasons.

There are such grand results to be looked for as certain from the completion of all-rail lines between Richmond and Cincinnati and Louisville and St. Louis and the Lake cities that the object is worthy of our highest efforts. We cannot over-estimate its importance. And yet it is only necessary to do a comparatively small work to accomplish all this. The forty-eight miles from Huntington to Portsmouth would connect us with Cincinnati and all the Lake cities. That would force the other connections in a very brief time. We repeat, the subject is worthy of the best and strongest efforts of those concerned. Our own people should give it their constant attention.

"Honest Money "-" Inflation."

The hard money organs are pleased to bring forward a term which they would feign believe an honest one, and likely to make an impression on honest people. They speak of "honest money." And what is it?-gold. Who has gold? Honest men? Let the people answer. What is it that by contrast is dishonest money? Why, paper: the money of the people, the redemption of which the Government and the people are pledged for. Then, what is "honest money?" Let the people answer. Oh its very "bonest" to compel us all to come down at once to a gold basis, which will hold out only until an excitement arises and distrust is occasioned. Then everybody wants gold. Everybody can't have it, and the people are shaved by those who have it until a suspension of gold payments is rendered unavoidable. With " honest money" the "honest" shavers gouge the people until they are relieved by

We want none of your so-called " honest money" at this time. It would but lead to ruin as long as distrust and anxiety prevail; when they are ended then " honest money' may be maintained, and then nobody cares anything about it. In our opicion we have as honest money now as any people over had. It is the best paper money ever circulated in this Union. It is current everywhere, and of uniform value all over the country .. That is a currency that everybody should be satisfied with. It is "honest money." Now let those who choose oppose this money, and ery out for the gold basis, which is rever useful in a MASONIC NOTICE-The memcrisis. It fails in a panic ac frost dissolves before the sun. Let those who will, agitate in favor of specie payment new when it cannot be maintained, and when nobody wants it, and they will be beaten. The popular-side now is the side in favor of leaving things as they are until the time for specie payments comes. Then specie payments can do and harm They will as obligingly come where sacy can't be maintained as they will become useful when there is no difficulty in the way. Yes, let the "honest money"-the people's money-for which the nation is responsiblecontinue to be our money. The party that sustains it with wise conditions will triumph. Oh, yes; these patriotic ananciers would send us to the stock-waterers, the ring-makers, and gold gamblers of Wall street for "honest money." And where else should we look for it? Let the people answer,
